Lesson 353 Notes :

1. We used a slightly different approach in this lesson of not giving you the English translation of some of the new words up front, but rather a translation into Chinese. The English translations were added to the end summary so you could check if you understood them correctly or not.

2. Note how yùndòng can refer to exercise or sports:

yùndòng 运动 / 運動 sports

a. Nà dāngrán yùndòng duì shēntǐ hěn hǎo .

那当然运动对身体很好. / 那當然運動對身體很好.

Then of course exercise is good for the body .

b. Kěshì yǒuxiē rén zhǐ shì duì yīxiē tǐyù hěn yǒu xìngqù .

可是有些人只是对一些体育很有兴趣. / 可是有些人只是對一些體育很有興趣.

But some people are just interested in some sports .

3. Note the use of the verb hài in suǒyǐ yǒu shíhòu kěnéng huì yīnwèi zhè yàng hài zìjǐ de qiúduì shū diào bǐsài . In Chinese, you can distinguish between a regular cause and a harmful cause using this verb.

hài 害 / 害 to cause harm

suǒyǐ yǒu shíhòu kěnéng huì yīnwèi zhè yàng hài zìjǐ de qiúduì shū diào bǐsài

所以有时候可能会因为这样害自己的球队输掉比赛 / 所以有時候可能會因為這樣害自己的球隊輸掉比賽

so sometimes this might cause their team to lose the game
