Raphael: Let's explain today's dialogue . The first line is ...

Kirin: Welcome !

Raphael: When we go to a store we often hear the clerk say this line to welcome us . The woman in the dialogue then says Kirin: Hello . May I ask, are you the boss of this restaurant ?

Raphael: When you are greeting someone , we normally say "Hello ." As well, if there is a question that you want to ask someone , we add the two characters for "May I ask" , this is a more polite form . So the woman in the dialogue wants to know if this man is the boss of the restaurant . The man then replies Kirin: That's right . What can I do for you ?

Raphael: This woman asked the right person , who happened to be the boss of the restaurant . He wanted to know why this woman was looking for him . The woman then said Kirin: In the school office I saw your advertisement requesting waiters . I'm very interested in this job , so I came here to apply for it .

Raphael: The boss of the restaurant wants to find a new waiter , so he pasted an advertisement at the school office , to let people who wanted this job get the news , and apply for the job listed in the advertisement . The woman in the dialogue feels that she is suitable for this job , so she wants to apply for it . The man then replies Kirin: Ok . May I ask, have you ever had a job at a restaurant before ?

Raphael: Normally during interviews , the boss will ask you if you have any experience with the same job , or see if you have any other work experience . If you do , it will help you with this job application . So he asks this woman if she has any experience working at a restaurant . The woman then replies

Kirin: A few years ago I worked part time at a coffee shop .

Raphael: This woman had experience working at a coffee shop part time a few years ago , so she already has some experience . The man finally says Kirin: Ok . In that case please put your contact information and write it on this form . We will inform you after we have decided .

Raphael: Since there may be many people coming for interviews , you have to fill out some forms , and write down your contact information and what the best way to contact you is . Like your home phone number , email address and your cell phone number etc . Finally, after the boss decides, he will contact this woman , and tell her what the result of the interview was . Ok, let's listen again to today's dialogue at a normal speed .
